

Sylvestre Gauvrit

Sylvestre Gauvrit is a french artist, who during his travels, discovered sculpting and later decided to become a professional artist. He graduated Academia Belle Arti of Carrara then worked in various institutional art studios in Pietrasanta. Here he mastered his techniques of carving marble, especially monumental pieces, and eventually created his own studio to make his own sculptures. Sylvestre works with marble, stainless steel, bronze and wood. His marble sculptures, also monumental works, are exceptionally gracious and emits lightness; they are almost transparent. The colored stainless steel sculptures emits energies that are dynamic and strong. The base of the sculptures are specially designed for each sculpture and forms unity. Sylvestre is inspired by nature, life, energy, curves of the female body, music, dance, and even perfumes. His message to the world - I make sculptures to give a message of hope and positivity today, creating better tomorrow. Sylvestre's sculptures are now part of private and public collections in major cultural capitals around the globe such as Hong Kong, Shanghai, Amsterdam, Zeist, Paris, Rome, Dubai, and London.
