Press Release

Today is the first day of autumn. Despite the gray skies, this season promises us a festival of shimmering colors every year. This atmosphere, both melancholic and vibrant, has inspired many artists, from Van Gogh and his fallen leaves to Monet and his flamboyant landscapes of Giverny. To celebrate this transition, here is a selection of works in which the season reigns supreme: paintings, engravings, and sculptures capturing the golden light and the discreet breath of the wind that carries away the last glimmers of summer.
